I love attending FSU. It is a beautiful campus, the education I am receiving is very helpful and will definitely assist me in the future, and all of my advisors and professors have been wonderful.

I love Florida State University. The campus is beautiful and it feels just like home. The buildings are all beautiful and I love studying in our multiple libraries or on our lovely Landis Green. We have so many clubs to be a part of it hard to choose which ones to be involved in. I am in Lady Spirit Hunters and it is our job to spread school spirit through out the school.

I am a psychology major and I really appreciate all the courses available for my area of study. I am enjoying the environment and the people that I am meeting! The only issue I have run into so far was the FSU's attempt at Hispanic Dining for Hispanic Heritage Month. After the first day, everything went downhill. They served tortilla wraps for Cuba Day, which is not very accurate, and only had maduros for Chile Day. I appreciate their effort but the food fell short :

I visited Florida State University my junior year on a college fair trip. With this opportunity, I was able to visit so many schools which were uniquely different. By the end of the trip I knew I found my top three schools that I was interested in attending, with Florida State University being one of them. What made me interested in Florida State University was the campus. As me and my classmates were following behind the tour guide excitedly, I realized how comfortable I felt. As me and peers explored the beautiful campus the atmosphere felt welcoming. I was able to see college students interacting and visit some of the buildings for different majors. I also learned about FSU study abroad program which was very interesting! Overall, I had a great experience!

During my journey at Florida high university school I've learned a lot. I've learned the importance of effective communication. I've learned how to be heard and be a leader. I'm a member of SGA and I'm Key club president. This has been such an awarding experience knowing I'm giving back to my community and school. I've matured through the years. I've overcome some obstacles that were quite tough but through prayer, family and friend support I've successfully succeeded. No better to prepare me for my next journey than Florida High. GO NOLES!
